

MAKE A HORSE HOLLOWFACE

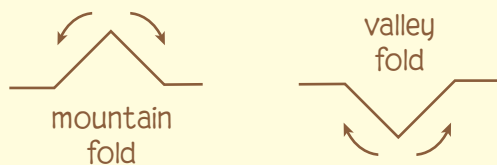

Fold this horse to create an amazing optical illusion!

WHAT YOU'LL NEED:

- Horse hollowface printout
- Scissors
- Tape or glue

INSTRUCTIONS:

1. Cut out the horse and base. Carefully cut along the dotted lines along the horse's body, mane and face.
2. Now, practice making the 2 types of folds used in this project: mountain and valley folds.

Mountain Fold: Folding the paper down to create a peak, looks like the letter A.

Valley Fold: Folding the paper up to create an indentation, looks like the letter V.

3. Starting at the horse's head, find the notch and line near the nose. Fold along this line, creating a valley fold.
4. Find the line at the top of the horse's head near the ear and make a mountain fold. The purple star should now be pointing down. You have also created a right angle at the horse's nose.
5. Valley fold the A and B tabs and secure them in place by taping or gluing the tabs to the back of the horse's head.
6. Using a mountain fold, fold the top and sides of the horse's mane.
7. Now you're ready to fold the base so the horse can stand up. Find the solid lines along the horse's body and in the leaves. Fold the side flaps in towards the back of the horse in a mountain fold and fold in the C and D tabs.
8. Then, fold up the bottom flap along with the E tab.
9. The flaps and tabs should fit together forming a base that allows the horse to stand up. Affix the F and G tabs to the flaps with tape or glue.
10. You're all done! Place the owl on a flat surface, close one eye, and move side to side to observe the cool hollow face illusion!
